There are many attractions for university age students along Rt. 66 in Missouri. So it is very difficult to choose only three. After great pains, I chose three things and places for you. They offer new experiences and satisfaction to you.

The St. Louis Gateway Arch in St. Louis was built in 1965. You can go to top of the arch. The top of arch offers amazing sight seeing. You can also go to the Museum of Westward Expansion. I think there is no shortage of entertainment here.

Meramec Caverns is the largest and most visited cave in Missouri. It is considered one of the primary attractions along Rt. 66. On hot summer days you can stay cool while going on a cave tour through Meramec Caverns.

Times Beach was a small town. But this town was completely evacuated in 1980 because of a dioxin scare. However, now the pollution has been cleaned up and Times Beach is a Route 66 State Park and Museum. The once abandoned town has changed into a vibrant state Park.

These three places help you have a good time on Rt. 66 in Missouri. From St. Louis to Joplin, Rt. 66 in Missouri has great scenery and attractions. Therefore, if you want to travel along Rt. 66, you must travel through Missouri and enjoy these three places. These will quickly fill up your digital camera's memory. Thank you for reading my travel log. I hope you enjoy Rt. 66 in Missouri.
